ROCKFON AND CHICAGO METALLIC HAVE JOINED FORCES

Chicago Metallic is now part of ROCKFON, the ceiling solutions division of the ROCKWOOL Group. Each company has vast experience in its own field of expertise. Our products, services and geographical footprints are highly complementary.

ROCKWOOL International A/S is the world's leading supplier of innovative building products and systems based on stone wool. Headquartered in Hedehusene, Denmark, it generated more than $2.5 billion in revenue in 2013 and has over 10,000 employees in 40 countries. In North America, ROCKWOOL operates under the name ROXUL.

ROCKFON is a subsidiary of ROCKWOOL specializing in stone wool acoustic ceiling and wall solutions. By integrating Chicago Metallic, ROCKFON adds suspension systems and specialty metal ceilings to its product offering.

What is stone wool?

The origins of stone wool can be traced back to Hawaii. After volcanic eruptions, the islanders would find fine fibers of volcanic glass on the ground that they called Pele's Hair, after the Hawaiian goddess of volcanoes.

Today we know that stone wool has unique qualities that make it perfectly suited for a wide range of purposes including insulation and acoustic control. The production process for ROCKWOOL stone wool is a technological replica of what happens inside of a volcano, with the volcanic rock being melted into lava and then spun and cooled in a controlled environment. The resulting stone wool is processed to make final products like ceiling panels.

The main raw material for ROCKWOOL products is a renewable and plentiful natural resource. Every year, the Earth's geological activity produces approximately 38,000 times more stone material than is used to make ROCKWOOL stone wool.
